This report contains the following sections:

- Executive Summary
- Detailed Security Issues
- Remediation Tasks
- Application Data
- Application URLs
- Advisories & Fix Recommendations

Executive Summary

Test Policy

- Default

Security Risks

Following are the security risks that appeared most often in the application. To explore which issues included these risks, please refer to the 'Detailed Security Issues' section in this report.

- It is possible to steal or manipulate customer session and cookies, which might be used to impersonate a legitimate user, allowing the hacker to view or alter user records, and to perform transactions as that user
- It is possible to gather sensitive information about the web application such as usernames, passwords, machine name and/or sensitive file locations

Vulnerable URLs

2% of the URLs had test results that included security issues.

Scanned URLs

770 URLs were scanned by AppScan.

Security Issue Possible Causes

Following are the most common causes for the security issues found in the application. The causes below are those that repeated in the maximal number of issues. To explore which issues included these causes, please refer to the 'Detailed Security Issues' section in this report.

- Insufficient authentication method was used by the application
- Sensitive information might have been cached by your browser

Security Issues per Host

Hosts	High	Medium	Low	Informational	Total
https://registryplustest.dshs.state.tx.us/	0	6	5	0	11
Total	0	6	5	0	11

Security Issue Distribution per Threat Class

The following is a list of the security issues, distributed by Threat Class.

Security Issue Cause Distribution

100% Application-related Security Issues (11 out of a total of 11 issues).

Application-related Security Issues can usually be fixed by application developers, as they result from defects in the application code.

0% Infrastructure and Platform Security Issues (0 out of a total 11 issues).

Infrastructure and Platform Security Issues can usually be fixed by system and network administrators as these security issues result from misconfiguration of, or defects in 3rd party products.

Validation In Response:

N/A

Reasoning:

The test result seems to indicate a vulnerability because the same request was sent twice in different sessions, and the same response was received. This shows that none of the parameters are dynamic (session identifiers are sent only in cookies) and therefore that the application is vulnerable to CSRF.

Validation In Response:

N/A

Reasoning:

The test result seems to indicate a vulnerability because the same request was sent twice in different sessions, and the same response was received. This shows that none of the parameters are dynamic (session identifiers are sent only in cookies) and therefore that the application is vulnerable to CSRF.

Validation In Response:

Reasoning:

The test result seems to indicate a vulnerability because the same request was sent twice in different sessions, and the same response was received. This shows that none of the parameters are dynamic (session identifiers are sent only in cookies) and therefore that the application is vulnerable to CSRF.

Cross-site Request Forgery

CVE ID(s)

N/A

CWE ID(s)

352

Security Risks

It is possible to steal or manipulate customer session and cookies, which might be used to impersonate a legitimate user, allowing the hacker to view or alter user records, and to perform transactions as that user

Possible Causes

Insufficient authentication method was used by the application

Technical Description

Even well-formed, valid, consistent requests may have been sent without the user's knowledge. Web applications should therefore examine all requests for signs that they are not legitimate. The result of this test indicates that the application being scanned does not do this.

The severity of this vulnerability depends on the functionality of the affected application. For example, a CSRF attack on a search page is less severe than a CSRF attack on a money-transfer or profile-update page.

When a web server is designed to receive a request from a client without any mechanism for verifying that it was intentionally sent, then it might be possible for an attacker to trick a client into making an unintentional request to the web server which will be treated as an authentic request. This can be done via a URL, image load, XMLHttpRequest, etc., and can result in exposure of data or unintended code execution.

If the user is currently logged-in to the victim site, the request will automatically use the user's credentials including session cookies, IP address, and other browser authentication methods. Using this method, the attacker forges the victim's identity and submits actions on his or her behalf.

General Fix Recommendations

There are several mitigation techniques:

[1] Strategy: Libraries or Frameworks

Use a vetted library or framework that does not allow this weakness, or provides constructs that make it easier to avoid.

For example, use anti-CSRF packages such as the OWASP CSRFGuard -

http://www.owasp.org/index.php/Cross-Site_Request_Forgery_\(CSRF\)_Prevention_Cheat_Sheet_Prevention_Cheat_Sheet)

Another example is the ESAPI Session Management control, which includes a component for CSRF -

<http://www.owasp.org/index.php/ESAPI>

[2] Ensure that your application is free of cross-site scripting issues (CWE-79), because most CSRF defenses can be bypassed using attacker-controlled script.

[3] Generate a unique nonce for each form, place the nonce into the form, and verify the nonce upon receipt of the form. Be sure that the nonce is not predictable (CWE-330) -

<http://www.cgisecurity.com/articles/csrf-faq.shtml>

Note that this can be bypassed using XSS (CWE-79).

[4] Identify especially dangerous operations. When the user performs a dangerous operation, send a separate confirmation request to ensure that the user intended to perform that operation.

Note that this can be bypassed using XSS (CWE-79).

[5] Use the "double-submitted cookie" method as described by Felten and Zeller:

When a user visits a site, the site should generate a pseudorandom value and set it as a cookie on the user's machine. The site should require every form submission to include this value as both a form and a cookie value. When a POST request is sent to the site, the request should only be considered valid if the form and cookie values are the same.

Because of same-origin policy, an attacker cannot read or modify the value stored in the cookie. To successfully submit a form on behalf of the user, the attacker would have to correctly guess the pseudorandom value. If the pseudorandom value is cryptographically strong, this will be prohibitively difficult.

This technique requires Javascript, so it may not work for browsers that have Javascript disabled -

<http://citeseerx.ist.psu.edu/viewdoc/summary?doi=10.1.1.147.1445>

Note that this can probably be bypassed using XSS (CWE-79), or when using web technologies that enable the attacker to read raw headers from HTTP requests.

[6] Do not use the GET method for any request that triggers a state change.

[7] Check the HTTP Referer header to see if the request originated from an expected page. This could break legitimate functionality, because users or proxies may have disabled sending the Referer for privacy reasons.

Note that this can be bypassed using XSS (CWE-79). An attacker could use XSS to generate a spoofed Referer, or to generate a malicious request from a page whose Referer would be allowed.

CVE ID(s)

N/A

Security Risks

It is possible to gather sensitive information about the web application such as usernames, passwords, machine name and/or sensitive file locations

Possible Causes

Sensitive information might have been cached by your browser

Technical Description

Most web browsers are configured by default to cache the user's pages during use. This means that SSL pages are cached as well.

It is not recommended to enable the web browser to save any SSL information, since this information might be compromised when a vulnerability exists.

General Fix Recommendations

Disable caching on all SSL pages or all pages that contain sensitive data.

For example, you can add "Cache-Control: no-cache, no-store" to your login page headers.
